From the Treasurer

Spring has come and gone - summer is here with the bounty of the flowering of the gardens. Our treasury has a positive balance but I am concerned about the future.

I hope that everyone has a bountiful harvest this year and you are prospering on your spiritual path.

Thank you for your contributions and your support for the Henge of Keltria,

The Baro's Path

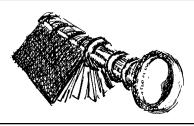

MORGAINE

In the rain-sweet air of a night but grazed by the Moon, brushing the verdancy beckoning in whispers to the memory's heart, sparkling in a million green-golden specks, singing in the mystical crescendo of the myriad minute, I watch her watching, lithe and lithic, lovely in a way to be told only in deep, secret groves, with the scent of the moss, or the musky smoke of arches and apses.

She turns with a movement of marble and flesh, her eyes the still waters above which I lay. By her hand I am mist to envelop the fay.
